Saw Fly Resistant Wheat

Farmers who want to get some Rescue wheat for seed are advised to make application for it immediately. At the present time there is about 4,000 bushels of this wheat at the Andrew Farm, Drumheller. This wheat is in big demand for seed in other districts and will be shipped out of this district in the near future.

Farmers should make their applications for this seed to the Dominion Experimental Station at Lethbridge. Each farmer is limited to ten bushels, and the price is $2.00 per bushel.

Rescue is the recently developed saw fly resistant wheat. Farmers who are in districts where saw-fly have been a menace would be well advised to secure some of this seed.

Brood Sow Reminders

The need for potassium iodide in the pregnant sow's ration is stressed by A. J. Charnetski, live stock supervisor. One ounce of potassium iodide dissolved in one gallon of water and fed at the rate of one tablespoonful of the solution per sow per day, will prevent hairlessness and will encourage the production of strong healthy litters at birth.

DISTILLERS BOUGHT WHEAT DOLLAR UNDER MARKET. IS CLAIM

Government Bans Further Sales Below World Value

Farmer's wheat was being sold to distillers for making whisky at $1.25 per bushel up until a few weeks ago, when this wheat could have been sold for export at $2.25 per bushel, according to a statement made by The North-West Line Elevators Association in contradiction of a public announcement made by the minister of trade and commerce inferring that none had been sold to distilleries since the end of the war.

The Line Elevator Companies statement follows:

Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, the minister of trade and commerce in an interview in Winnipeg Thursday, "denied emphatically that any wheat is now going into the manufacture of liquor." He further indicated that wheat had been used by distillers for the manufacture of industrial alcohol during the war, but not any more.

On November 12, 1946, The North-West Line Elevators Association wrote to the Prime Minister objecting to farmers' wheat being sold by the Canadian Wheat Board to distillers of whisky and industrial alcohol at $1.25 per bushel when this wheat could be sold at $2.25 per bushel for export.

On December 19, 1946, the Canadian Wheat Board issued an order stating: "We are advised by the government that no more wheat should be sold to the distilleries, with the exception of any available low grade wheat unfit for human consumption." The order went on to state that future sales to distilleries must be on the basis of the export price for Class 2 wheat. Class 2 wheat is today quoted by the Canadian Wheat Board at $2.27 per bushel.

The war ended seventeen months ago. Up until a few weeks ago the farmers' wheat was being sold to the distilleries at $1.25 per bushel. The minister of trade and commerce in his interview "noted that some people have been talking about the sale of wheat for making spirits in Canada. He wanted to nail that statement and give it absolute denial." It would appear that the "people" referred to by Mr. MacKinnon have been responsible for getting the farmer an additional $1.02 per bushel for this wheat.

The highest ability is responsibility - responding with all your ability to every need.

CONTEST HELPED BARLEY QUALITY

Top quality barley for at least one sixth of Canada's malting requirements for the current year was one of the results of last year's $25,000 National Barley Contest.

As a result of the contest Western Canada had not only maintained its production but made a slight increase. The quality of commercial barley was stepped up from two per cent to nearly 2.5 percent.

There was no accurate way of measuring the improvement in quality of varieties excepting that all the pure seed was sold last year and the supply wasn't equal to the demand. As a means of stimulating the supply of pure seed it was estimated that the supply of registered and certified seed had at least been doubled for this year.

Prof. Harrison explained the rigid system of elimination employed after entries were in and explained why some contestants had to be eliminated. Many of them could have avoided this had they made themselves acquainted with rules of the contest.

A PROBLEM FOR ALBERTA

The newspaper reports from Edmonton of the meeting of the Alberta school teachers during the Christmas holidays, should be a cause of concern to all parents in Alberta.

According to the figures given there is a shortage of approximately twenty three hundred teachers in this province and between eighteen and twenty percent of the children are receiving their education by mail. This is a serious situation.

The reason for this shortage of teachers is obviously the smallness of the salaries and the lack of assurance of a promising future.

It is impossible to expect the municipalities to assume a larger share of the cost of schooling and therefore it is up to the government to shoulder the additional burden.

It is generally recognised that the progress of a nation depends upon the soundness of its educational facilities. This being the case there should be no argument as to where the duty of the government lies.

To try to be good without religion is frustrating. To try to be religious without being good is devastating.

The events of the year just passed were not as spectacular as those of 1945, which saw the dramatic ending of world war II, but considered in relation to man's constant search for the way to live together in peace, it has been a year of greatest achievement. All organizations of the United Nations will need active and informed public support in the coming year if they are to fulfil the hope of the world.

But it is forward that all the anxious political observers and hopeful Canadians are looking today: what will 1947 bring to Canada? Perhaps the greatest need is an agreement between the federal government and the provincial governments that will bring Canada's practical administration up to date. The division of responsibilities between governments that met the needs of 1867 does not meet the needs of modern Canada. It is recognized that wealth and industry, largely concentrated because of geographic circumstances in our two central provinces, belong to all Canadians because all Canadians helped to produce it. The benefits and opportunities must be spread to all Canadians equally if Canada is to remain as a national and economic unit. There are many signs that the people of Ontario and Quebec are rapidly moving to support this view as the new year opens. The election result in Richelieu Vercheres, Quebec, where this was an issue, is considered one of the signs.

Prices and Controls

Further evidence of the value of Canada's price stabilization policy comes to those who watched prices in the United States after the holidays. Newspaper headlines indicate a break in the price of butter of 10 cents a pound and other important changes. Prices for primary products are always the first to break when inflation is permitted and farmers are the first to suffer. This evidence will not be lost on the members of parliament from rural areas when the policies of price control are debated in parliament after it opens on January 30.

To Boost Farm Production

One of the important benefits listed in the federal government offer in the Dominion Provincial discussions and to be introduced by the minister of agriculture this year is the extension of the prairie farm rehabilitation plan to central and Eastern Canada. The new act has large possibilities, particularly for eastern Ontario and the Maritime provinces. Agricultural production and consequent prosperity will receive a substantial "boost" from (a) flood control of rivers requiring it (b) drainage and development of rich "muck lands" in Eastern Ontario and the Maritimes (c) Diking to reclaim from the Atlantic Ocean much rich land in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia (d) Clearing and development of some bush lands (e) Reforestation and other measures to prevent soil erosion.

Toward Freer Trading

One of the most serious handicaps to our trade is the conversion of the currency of Britain and some other countries to Canadian dollars. For this reason the agreement between Canada and Britain has been hailed as an other good omen for 1947.

Without special agreement trading in our dislocated world has forced most countries to buy in the markets they had sold in. But with the new agreement countries will now be able to sell on the British market and use the proceeds of their sales to buy in Canada. Twenty two countries will be affected in this way and will become more active markets for the products of Canada's fisheries, farms and factories.

DAY-NIGHT ROOMS: Marking a new era in hotel comfort, ultra-modern "day-night" parlor bedrooms have been introduced at the Royal York, the Canadian Pacific's 1200-room hotel in Toronto. Largest hotel in the British Empire the Royal York (inset) is the first in Canada to put in the new style equipment. Shown above as a parlor by day and a bedroom by night the rooms have along one wall a luxurious chesterfield unit which can be turned down into a three-quarter bed. The unit also houses a writing desk, which becomes a dressing table when the top is lifted, storage space for lounge cushions and bedding, a side table and radio. Pleasingly compact, the rooms are perfect for entertaining.

MISLED CRACKSMEN

Recently yeggs blew the safe of the Innisfail Province, gathered up a handful of silver, and made their getaway. The rewards they gained for their infamous act did little to recompense them for their toil and trouble.

We say "infamous act" advisedly for, while a bank or the safe of some wealthy man may be considered legitimate prey for safebreakers, a newspaper office is supposed to be sacrosanct. Thieves are supposed to know better than to break into them.

Maybe the fault lies with Mr. Ben Huckell, publisher of The Innisfail Province. He is quite a prosperous looking gentleman which may well have misled the yeggs as to the contents of his office safe. Mr. Huckell is not so concerned over the money stolen, but is none too well pleased over the havoc wrought on the place where he keeps his subscription list.

CANADA'S HealthSunshine Foods

There is a valuable health giving power in the sun, and, when weather permits, sunbathing under proper conditions is most beneficial. Health authorities point out that when the weather makes sunbathing inadvisable or even impossible, you may still get a "Sunshine Vitamin" from food.

Such foods as milk, cheese and fish supply it, and, where the family doctor considers even more intake advisable, a fish liver oil should be included in the diet.

Bundling Bad

It is not healthful to sit round inside wearing those woollies you had to wear in the cold outside. Women appreciate this. Health authorities at Ottawa suggest that heavy, warm clothing be reserved for the outdoors. Wearing the same thick things indoors favors chills, which lower resistance and render you liable to more serious infection.

Iodized Salt

In parts of Canada where soil and water do not supply adequate natural salt, it is advisable to fortify the diet with iodized salt.

Medical practitioners know the local deficiencies and those who would ensure health will ask the family doctor for advice in this, as in other health matters.

Health Game

A game entitled "Eat Right—Score High" is available for health education in Canada, particularly for schools. It is based on Canada's Food Rules and provides amusement as well as instruction.

The games are obtainable through Provincial Health departments and local Health Unit

Dental Defects

Dental defects are not only decided health hazards, but dental disease untreated in childhood means more extensive dental damage in later life. This damage is permanent since, unlike other body tissues, teeth cannot repair themselves once they decay.

Early correction of defects is the best method of combatting dental disease. The oral cavity is easily accessible and responds readily to treatment. Yet, ironically enough, despite the ease with which dental defects may be remedied, there are still thousands of dentally neglected children.

Camp for Cure

A camp of three hundred people was established in Alberta in connection with a VD plan of the Alberta Department of Health in co-operation with federal government departments.

As a syphilis control measure, Alberta tested the population north of Lesser Slave Lake and concentrated under canvas all those found with the disease. There the campers were given complete courses of treatment, buying health.

Costly foods aren't necessarily the best foods. This was proven by surveys establishing food values.

The Nutrition Division of the Department of National Health and Welfare has prepared a book entitled "Shopping Lists". Its contents are based on "Canada's Food Rules" and include tables of foods for various age-groups in a typical family of five. From these a sample weekly market order is made out, with prices indicated. The total, based on Ottawa and Montreal prices at the time, was $12.78.

Well thought out nutritious meals pay dividends.

WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange

The Spread of Winter Wheat

A number of agricultural authorities have been inquiring about the increasing use of winter wheat. I have just taken off the figures from a survey made by the research department of the Searle Grain Company as to where winter wheat was being grown, the varieties in use and whether the crop was increasing or not. The results are interesting. They indicate that this last fall some winter wheat was sown in 12 out of 17 Crop Districts in Alberta and in 7 out of 9 in Saskatchewan. Practically none was sown in Manitoba. The winter wheat production two years ago was approximately one million bushels. Last year between two and three million and the 1947 crop it seems may be around six million bushels. These considerable increases have been brought about mainly by the 10 cents higher price for winter wheat than for 1 Northern spring wheat; indicating the immediate effect that changing price has on inducing farmers to grow more or less of any crop. Governments, therefore, that want increased production in this or that crop or product, should take notice of the effect of higher prices. Raise the price and farmers will quickly produce more without any urging or exhortation.

NEW COLORS FOR MOTOR PLATES

Alberta's color combination for 1947 motor vehicle number plates will be white letters on a black background according to information which the AMA has received from the provincial secretary's department.

This is regarded as a most popular color combination and easily identified at all times.

Alberta's color scheme also will be in use in Quebec, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

British Columbia will have green letters on a white background, and Saskatchewan will have black on orange. Manitoba and also Ontario will have black lettering on an aluminum background. New Brunswick will have cream on brown.

As has been the practice for several years, there will be only one number plate issued for each vehicle, to be attached to the rear of the car.

It is expected that the province will return to the two-number plate system in 1948 when materials for their manufacture in greater numbers will be available. Many of the states continue to issue only one number plate.
